GENERAL HOSPITAL

KANAOKA JAPAN

Dedication

To the thousands of patients who have crossed the threshold of the 382<sup>d</sup> General Hospital since 17 March
1951 this volume is humbly dedicated.

Colonel, Medical Corps

Commanding Officer

Historical Sketch

Our beginning

An anonymous colonel, with the scent of Japanese Cherry blossoms filling his nostrils, scrawled his signature of approval to activate a evacuation hospital in the area of the Nation's Capital.

This was early Spring of 1948 when the 382d embarked on a mission of mercy which would eventually aid our fighting men.

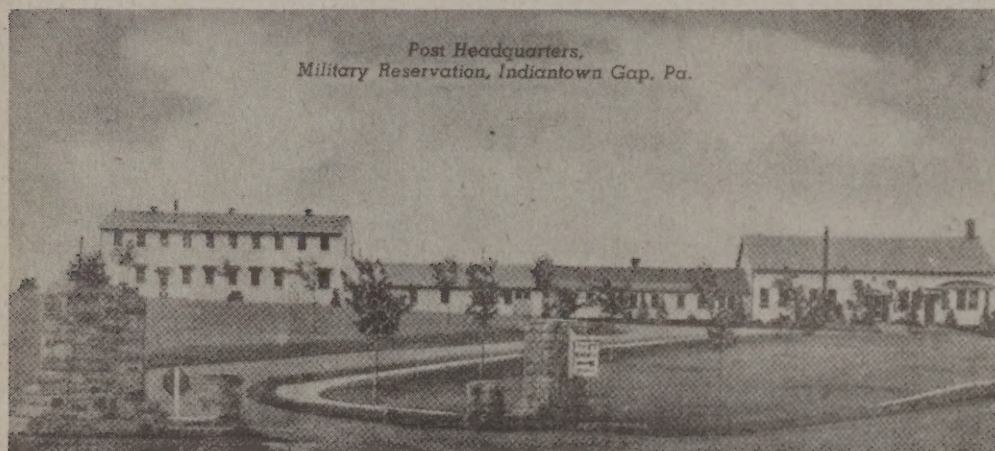

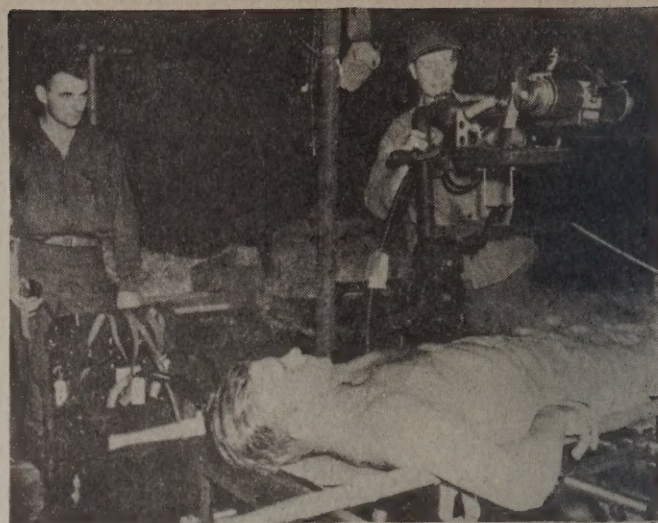

G.I. Party on "C" Street.

Lt Col Rex Huey, first foster father and medical instructor of the 382d, pauses outside headquarters on C St. in the summer of 1950.

Beginning March 28, 1948 the original complement, consisting entirely of male personnel, held meetings in downtown Washington, D.C. Club 400 was one of the places selected, but most famous of all was the armory located at 2123 C Street. It was from this address that the 382d drew its highly respected nickname, "THE C STREETERS."

In early July, 1949, the 382d spent two weeks training at Ft George G Meade, Maryland. This training was broken into two separate phases. Morning training was in the US Army hospital where the personnel were familiarized with hospital procedures while the evening schedule was devoted to field training.

During the following summer, in August 1950, the 382d moved to Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pennsylvania, where they operated a 75-bed hospital for the 28th Division. An unforgettable experience occurred while the unit was at IGMR. The 382d moved in at 1300 hrs, and by 1630 hrs, Maj Brown, surgeon, had already removed a man's appendix---how about that for efficiency in the higher tradition of an "evac" hospital?

When the 382d had finished their training at IGMR and were about to leave, a wire was received by Colonel Maret informing him that the 382d was elected for active federal service. This was a big day for the 382d, they were soon redesignated the 382d General Hospital and on their way to becoming an important figure in our armed forces program.

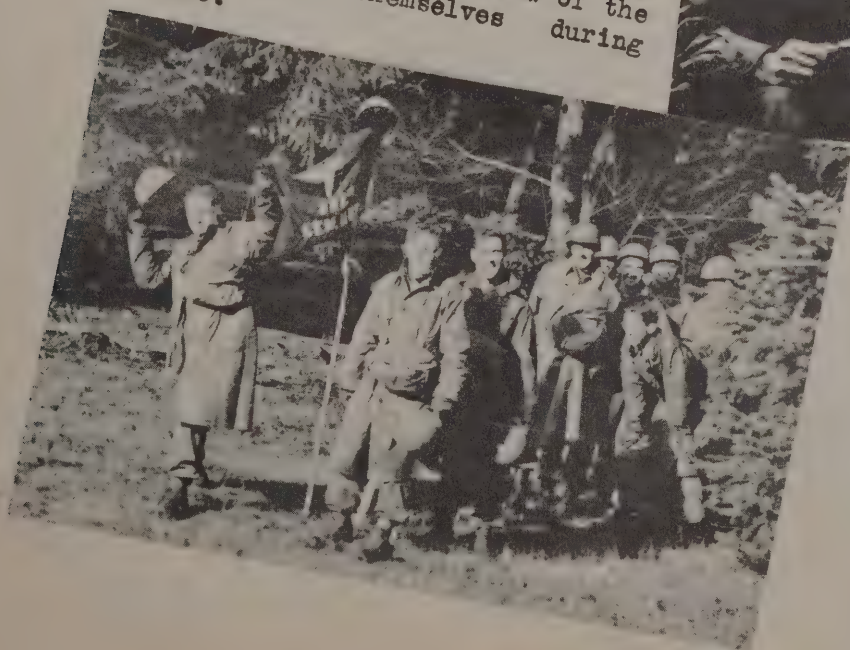

HEADQUARTERS BUILDING
while at Ft Lewis, Washington

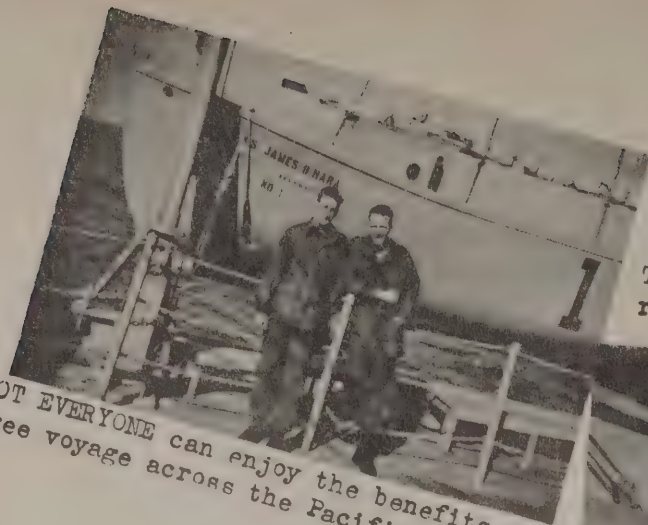

The first long move of the 382d began in late September 1950, when the unit rolled to Ft Lewis, near Tacoma, Washington. The reservists began to file in to bolster the ranks of the 382d. Many of the valuable skilled technicians necessary to operate a general hospital were drawn from the list of the dependable Enlisted Reserve Corps. These reservists underwent an intensive training program in field operations at Ft Lewis and were instructed in hospital procedures at the nearby Madigan Army Hospital. In a few months they were trained, ready and willing to serve.

LOST PATROL? No, just a few of the boys enjoying themselves during bivouac.

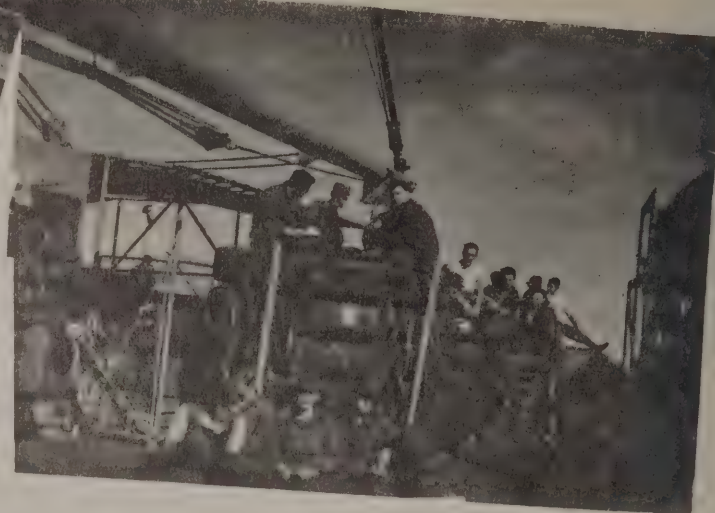

EVERYONE went on bivouac--those sandwiches look cold! 1 to r, Capt John Wilson, Col Maret and Maj "Joe" Cooch.

THESE sergeants are playing it safe--it was rough that day.

NOT EVERYONE can enjoy the benefits of a free voyage across the Pacific!

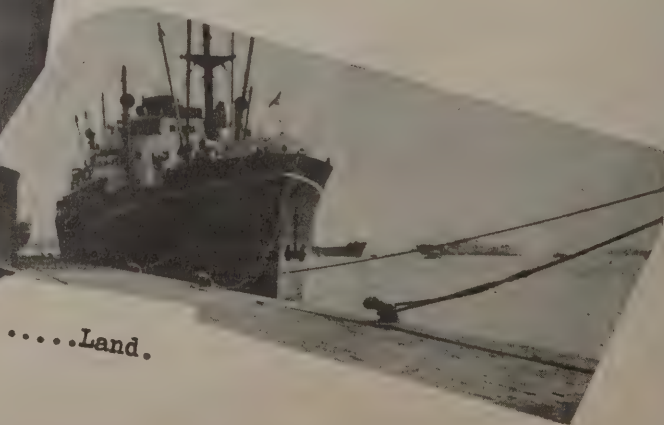

Within three months the 382d was alerted for shipment overseas. The USNS JAMES O'HARA was selected to carry the entire complement and equipment of the 382d across the Pacific for service in the Far East Command. The unit boarded the O'HARA on 10 January 1951 at the Seattle Port of Embarkation.

After nearly three weeks of rough sailing, the personnel of the 382d set foot on Japanese soil for the first time at Yokohama and after two days proceeded on to Kobe. After a lengthy train ride the 382d arrived at Kanaoka Barracks. The oldtimers remember this day with great pride, for it was from this day forward that the 382d became a vital member of our armed forces overseas.

THE WELCOME MAT OF THE 382D.

"There'll Be a Hot Time...." was played while this happened to the mess hall.

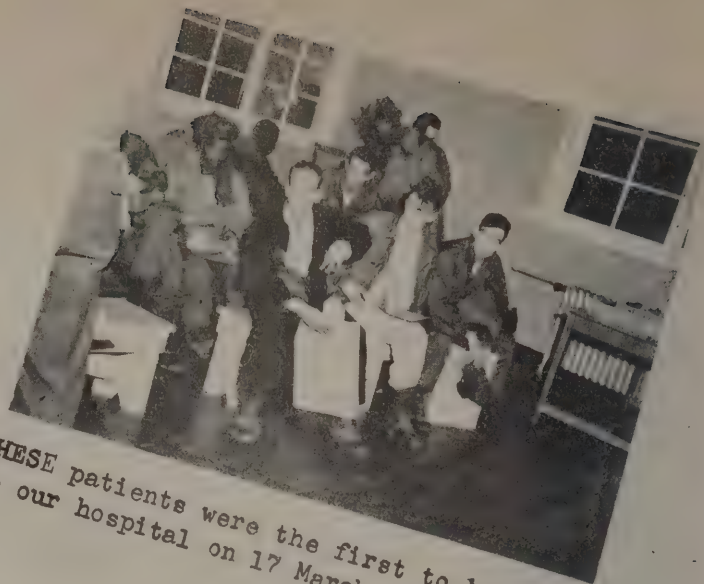

STARTING JAN 26, 1951 supplies and equipment were moved in to make this new hospital ready.

Colonel Raymond Maret laid out the welcome mat for the personnel of the 382d. The new arrivals anticipated some good old Army "chow" after eating with the Navy during the preceding weeks. The 55th Army Band was playing and everyone including the cooks did everything to make this the warmest of welcomings. In fact, the cooks got the stove so warm that the mess hall caught fire and burned to the ground. But this didn't interrupt the gaiety, not for a minute. The band simply picked up the tempo and gave out with "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" and "If I Knew You Were Comin' I'd of Baked a Cake!" It was a wonderful time and those who were there will never forget it.

"ZEBRAS" pulled KP just to see how the other half lived. That's ex-M/Sgt Finn dishing out the butter.

"Bring on the patients," was the cry that ensued Colonel Maret's announcement that the "C Streeters" would commence operation on the 17th of March 1951. They had come a long way, and at long last they were ready and proud to serve our fighting men.

THESE patients were the first to be admitted to our hospital on 17 March 1951.

PARADE for the first Reservists to leave.

Beginning in early July, 1951, replacements began pouring into Kanaoka Barracks. At the same time we bid "Sayonara" to most of those in the Enlisted Reserve Corps who were heading home under the Army's phasing out program. Parades and parties were scheduled to bid farewell to those who answered the call when their services were urgently needed.

BUFFET dinner commemorating a year's service.

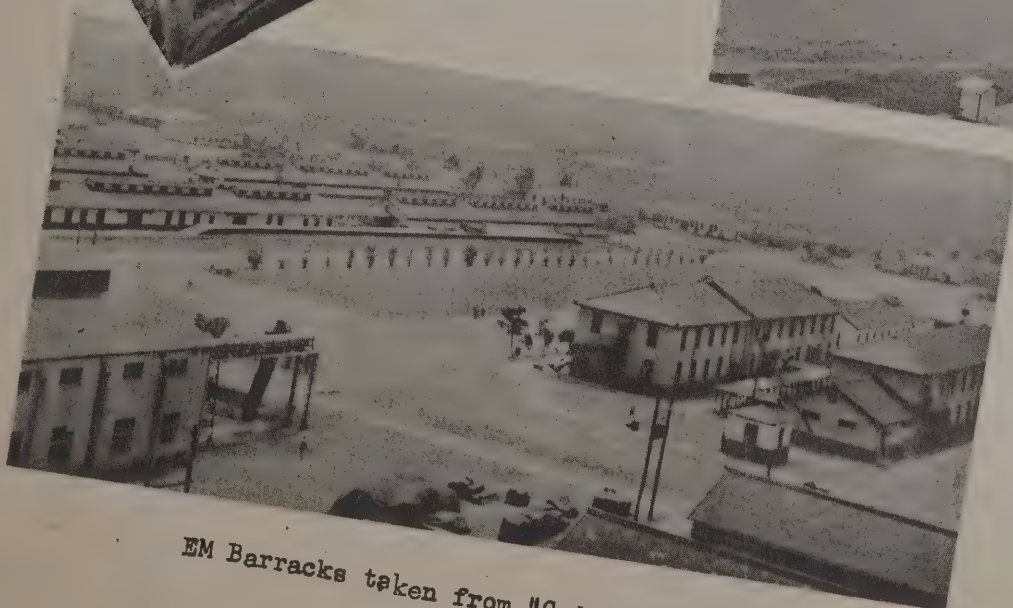

Celebration of a year's service and hard work came on March 17th 1952. The celebration was highlighted by a buffet supper at Kanaoka Kabana followed by a talent-packed USO show. It was quite a party all right, but never was a group more deserving.

READY!

The sun sets on the 382d General Hospital tonight after another smooth day of operation. It seems almost inconceivable that less than two years ago the 382d arrived at Ft. Lewis, Washington, consisting of a skeleton complement of doctors and nurses.

Where did the skilled technicians come from, the typists, clerks and all remaining personnel required to keep an organization the size of the 382d in operation? They were well hidden in the streets of our large cities and in the fields of our rural areas, they were spread out over six large states -- yes, God bless 'em, they were the reserves.

The body of the 382d was composed primarily of a group of men and women who had already contributed to the defense of our country by serving in World War II. Once again our nation called on their services and once again they shed their blue serge suits and nylon hose in exchange for the familiar khaki.

It was in late September, 1950, when the nation's call went out for skilled personnel to formulate the 382d General Hospital. Men and women gathered at Ft. Lewis from such distant places as Iowa, Indiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, and California.

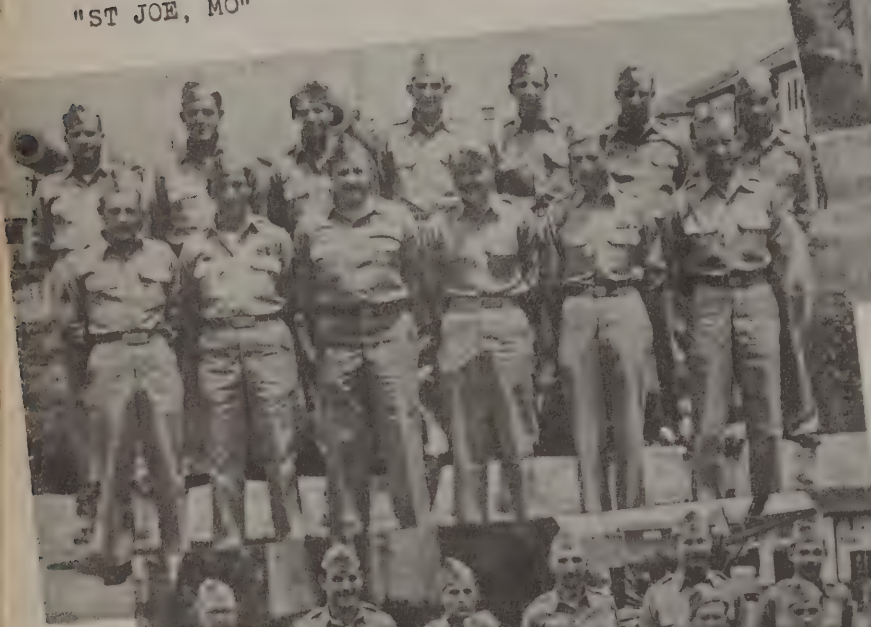

These were the men and women who gave up their homes, their families and their jobs to aid a cause in need. Once organized, they began to function as a team and proceeded, through hard work and determination, to make the 382d what it is today.

Most of that original band of reservists have returned to their homes and civilian occupations, but that set of khakis with the caduceus on its collar is still hanging in their closets, always ready to come to the aid of their country. They are the Minute Men of today--they were ready when we needed them most.

HEADQUARTERS

In the shadow of the main gate, directly below "Old Glory" and the flag of the United Nations is our headquarters building.

On the second floor of the headquarters building is the office of our Commanding Officer, Colonel Raymond Maret. Here decisions affecting the 382d are made by the Commanding Officer and his policies are converted into action by the Executive Officer through the Adjutant.

All hometown stories or the column or two concerning the 382d in the STARS and STRIPES emanate from the Public Information Section of headquarters. The off-duty classes, the correspondence courses and other educational aids are the products of your I&E Office.

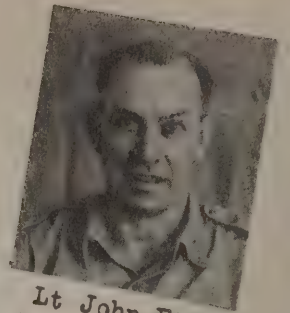

This is your headquarters, where orders originate; this is the administrative center, the nerves of the 382d.

CHAPLAIN SECTION

Our Government makes every possible effort to provide for the spiritual welfare of those in the service of our country. At the 382d General Hospital,

Catholic denominations are on duty to look after the spiritual well being of the men. Jewish personnel at the hospital are given the opportunity to attend services at Kobe and in the Post Chapel.

Regular religious services are conducted in the Kanaoka Chapel every Sunday morning with additional daily masses for the Catholic personnel and mid-week devotions for the Protestant personnel.

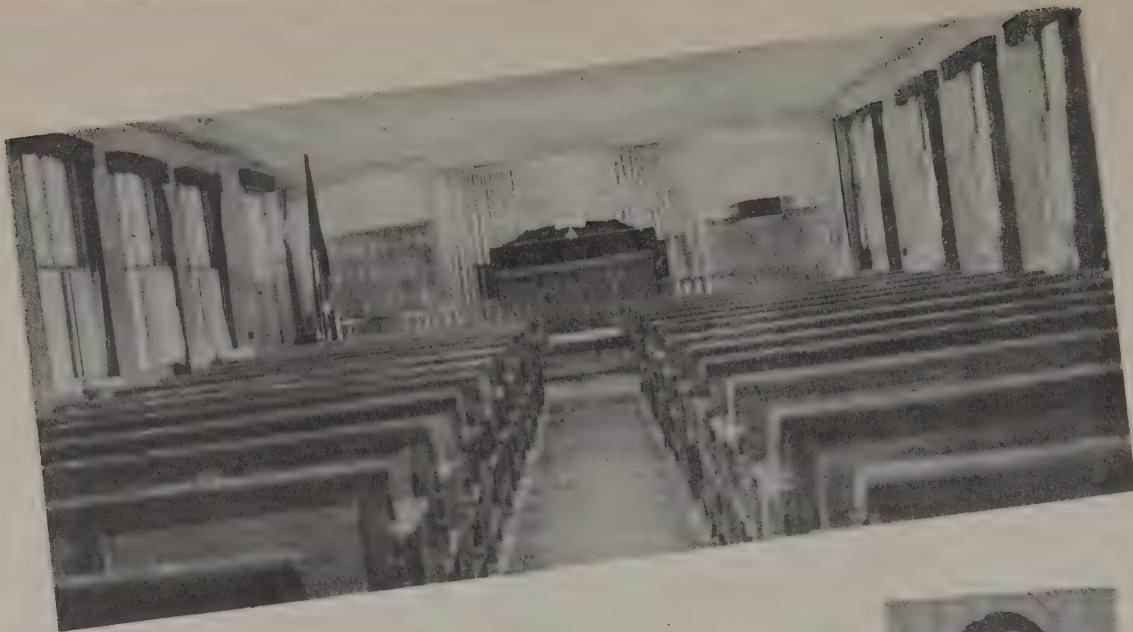

The Chaplain Section notifies the families of the wounded men admitted here from Korea and keeps in touch with the patients and renders them any service possible.

The Kanaoka Barracks Chapel is always open for private meditation and prayer.

REGISTRAR....

The doors never close at the receiving office of the 382d. There is a non-commissioned officer behind the receiving desk twenty-four hours a day. This is the welcome mat of the 382d.

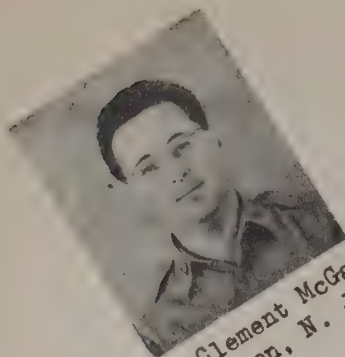

They do a lot of work down there in the registrar section. The officers and men who staff this vital section of our unit are skilled and efficient in carrying out their functions.

The outstanding responsibility of the Registrar Section is the daily publication of the Admission and Disposition sheet, along with other medical reports and compiling of medical statistics.

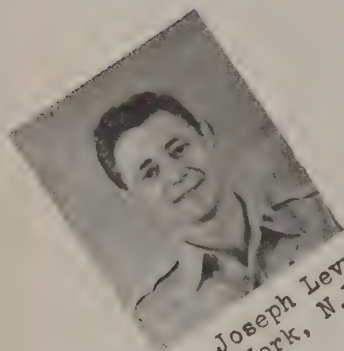

It's a tough and tedious job, but never was it known since the beginning of the 382d that our welcome mat wasn't always extended to all patients of all nations.

SURGICAL SERVICE

Under the glare of the intense light of the operating room our surgical teams wage a constant battle to establish the chain of asepsis. This has always been a one-way fight; there cannot be any question or doubt as to its outcome because a human life depends on our surgical teams winning the battle against infection.

Here lies the color, the romance of the Medical Corps. Each member of the surgical team plays an important part, because in a system demanding such faultless accuracy one minute mistake is enough to destroy the life of a patient.

LT TROBERT keeps a constant vigilance.

"The sun never sets on the Army nurse. You will find her in every far corner of the world where our troops have gone to meet the enemy..." These words were paid as a tribute to the Army nurse by Colonel Gardiner at the termination of the last war.

The nurses of the 382d uphold the fine tradition of the Army Nurse Corps which is surely a tribute to the American woman. The mission of the Army nurse here at the 382d is to provide intelligent and skillful nursing care to all patients from all nations admitted to our hospital.

Never has a patient left our gates without leaving behind him a feeling of sincere gratitude toward our nurses.

LABORATORY

Among a vast array of test-tubes, flasks and specimen boxes we find the unsung heroes of the Laboratory Service. For a doctor to understand a patient's disease it is necessary to rely on laboratory tests; some tests are helpful in following the course of ailing patients, and some are useful as routine tests as part of a general physical check-up.

Dangerous bacteria which could result in the death or serious illness of patients at the 382d General Hospital, are recognized here in the laboratory.

The highly skilled officers and technicians who man the chairs behind the microscope are of great importance to health and progress of our patients.

OUT-PATIENT SERVICE

Sick Call -- the term commonly associated with an army dispensary, is an important function of our hospital and it is only fitting that it be termed essential since the dispensary cares for those who help others.

Our pharmacy section--the drugstore of the 382d -- has no silk stockings or rare perfumes, but is well stocked with the invaluable medicines and drugs necessary in healing the sick and wounded.

These two sections, combined under the name of Out-patient service are of utmost importance in the performance of our mission.

DENTAL SERVICE.....

Some compare it with the dread of combat, some say they will refuse to go, but we've all been there and returned-- improved! This is the Dental Service, the neat little section situated in the clinical building facing the main gate. In the waiting line, which is just outside the "action room," you can see the most diverse collection of anxious, worried and unconcerned expressions that you will ever see concentrated in such a small area.

Actually, the Dental Service here at the 382d is doing a marvelous job. Staffed by a well coordinated team of officers and enlisted technicians, they play an important part in the never-ending crusade to maintain the physical well-being of both patients and personnel at the 382d.

PERSONNEL

Amid the tapping of many typewriters and surrounded by a mountain of filing cabinets we have our personnel section.

A complete biographical record of every man assigned to this hospital can be found in the personnel section.

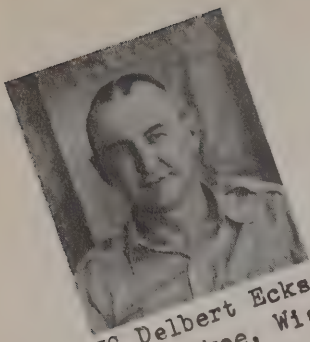

Our efficient personnel staff can produce a man's name, his entire educational background and complete military experience within a matter of minutes.

They keep an accurate account of each man's accumulated points and time of service and, when it comes time for him to rotate, action emanates from this section.

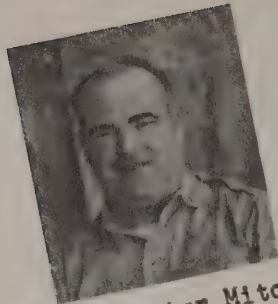

An important job well done by a highly competent staff!

This is where you get your pass, where your Commanding Officer is and the last contact with the 382d when you are leaving. The Orderly Room, the heart of the detachment, is always a busy and popular center of activity on any Army post.

"Report to the Orderly Room immediately," is a cry that can cause a tremendous eruption of fear, and yet, can be accepted with the greatest amount of enthusiasm.

The training division (S-3), which is in the same building, is concerned with improving everyone in the detachment. They see to it that we receive a certain amount of P.T., lectures on military courtesy, and other valuable information to make us better soldiers.

The members of the 382d will long remember the pass box with the hole in it sitting atop the desk in the Orderly Room.

"MAIL CALL"

--a term long recognized in military service as the chief morale builder for the personnel. Those few words from home or that long awaited package can make the day a little brighter for the soldier so far from home.

FOOD SERVICE

Although they dispense no potions and wrap no bandages, our Food Service Division is of prime importance to the patients and duty personnel.

It is their duty to see that every patient in this hospital receives three well-balanced meals each day. A special diet section for patients requiring prescribed foods is another function of this important section of our hospital. In addition, a bakery, ration breakdown and butcher shop are under the supervision of the Mess Officer.

It is an old Army tradition to gripe about the "Chow", but we of the 382d salute the officers and men of our Food Service Division for a job well done.

SUPPLY

Supply--the lifeline of an army. Our supply section lives up to all the compliments passed down through history. Supply was responsible for the defeat of Napoleon and, to a great extent, our many victories in World War II as well as our present success in the Korean conflict.

Under the Supply section here at the 382d, we have many other essential sections which function under its control.

The Post Engineers, along with Utilities, maintain all operative equipment including all plumbing and painting.

The Motor Pool--the wheels of the 382d--maintains a pool of vehicles to be used in the chain of supply and transportation of personnel.

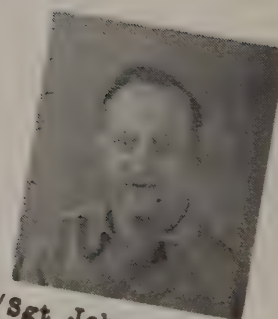

These sections, although not directly connected with the Medical Corps, are of utmost importance in the functioning of a general hospital.

RED

The Red Cross--international symbol of mercy. They can be found in the thick of combat; in our many hospitals and camps both overseas and at home.

The Red Cross is always on hand to help. That hot cup of coffee after a long night, that emergency loan or aid to dependents--These are just a few of the services offered by this organization.

In our own hospital, the Red Cross is doing commendable work with our patients. They are constantly training volunteer Gray Ladies who assist them in giving services to the sick and wounded.

Along with the many services involving the comfort and morale of patients, the Red Cross gives the most important gift of all-- the gift of life----blood.

They are a team, this Red Cross, and they have a definite goal and mission --to help others.
